

Central Intelligence Agency

Washington, D.C. 20505

17 August 1981

STAT

Dear [redacted]

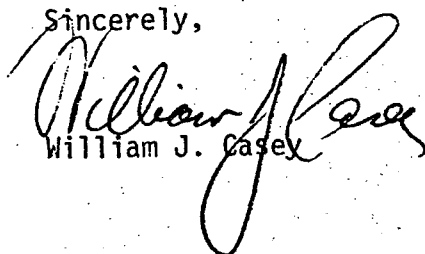

STAT

I sincerely appreciate your kind invitation to address the students of the Annandale Campus of Northern Virginia Community College. I am afraid, however, that I must decline for now.

I find the press of official commitments to be very severe indeed, enough so that they preclude my ability to take advantage of very many opportunities such as the one you propose. I truly regret that reality. Having been in and around Washington for a good many years, I have watched the progress of NVCC-Annandale with great admiration. I hope you will think of me again in a year or two.

Thank you again for your thoughtful invitation.

Sincerely,

William J. Casey